

Application for Certification in West Virginia as an Independent Review Organization to Review Long-term Care Benefit-Trigger Determinations

Recent amendments West Virginia's long term rule, W. Va. Code St. R. §114-32, added a provision granting an insured the right to appeal an insurer's adverse benefit trigger determination to a certified independent review organization (IRO). To be certified, an IRO must submit an application to the West Virginia Offices of the Insurance Commissioner (WVOIC). Certification must be renewed every three years unless otherwise subjected to additional review, suspension, or revocation by the WVOIC.

Instructions

Applicants are encouraged to thoroughly review W. Va. Code St. R. §114-32-29 and Appendix H of the rule prior to submitting an application.

1. All questions must be answered with a narrative response and/or a response referencing an attachment. If any question is believed to be "not applicable," include a brief statement why the question does not apply. Please note that all information provided as part of the application for initial certification or certification renewal is public information.
2. Responses must be supported and accompanied by any related policy documents to fully demonstrate compliance with West Virginia-specific requirements. If national policy documents are submitted, they must be accompanied by West Virginia-specific addenda.
3. Please clearly label all attachments (and relevant portions within each attachment) and reference each attachment in the narrative response on the application.
4. The completed application may be submitted electronically as a Microsoft Word or pdf document.
5. Do not use any colored paper for printing application responses as this paper cannot be scanned.
6. Part V (Certification) must be signed and dated by an officer of the corporation with appropriate authority.
